

WorldWar 4Four

Quarterly Newsletter

The Future is Watching, We Will be Judged

World War Four is a work of fiction. Written by a Patented Inventor of over 40 creations.

World War Four is based around the patent portfolio of Jerome Velardi. In an imaginary plane of thoughts, memories, and realizations we venture deep into the mind of one man who was clearly placed on earth to offer humankind an option of fates. He has provided us with the ways and means to sustain mankind throughout a long term coexistence. Yet he will also present us with the opposite option in order to temp your inner greed and caveman instincts, trying to override all rational innocent thoughts and temp those who rule into evil and cruel intent for a premeditated future of possibilities. To plant a garden of thoughts into your fertile or rotten minds. Truly a story and a test of man.

The Good	The Bad	The God
Inventions Every situation has a solution we just have to realize we are in a situation before we can think of a solution. Thoughts and memories are what separates us from all other animals on this earth. It is our advantage and what makes us special throughout our universe. We have been given an opportunity that has a chance of one in infinity to ever happen again. For intelligent life to occur on a sustainable planet took a number of accidents and trillions of years of all of the right circumstances including others sacrifice and extinctions to give us as humans one chance to live and prosper beyond our planet. As of now if we go extinct our story will not be remembered but reclaimed into the earth. We as people are now in a precarious state of being standing before a crossroads of time and evolution we have not yet chosen a path for our future.	Warfare by design. Our future is leading us toward a robotic and remote controlled form of removed warfare. This being said, the first to figure out how to accomplish a global reach from an efficient remote platform will have a distinct advantage for an unknown amount of time. The ones who win this secret race will have a window of opportunity to capitalize on an unknown advantage through surprise and overwhelming number of forces. Through preparation a plan can be implemented when an overwhelming advantage is built up. Remote Robotic Warfare is a potential shift from the normal face to face combat to a format wherein casualties will be to resources, materials, and equipment more than to the more limited resource of life. If this was implemented as a one sided endeavor than all of the casualties will be realized by the under prepared.	Have faith in me. To put your faith into another is inviting a stranger into your house. It can go either way once the door is shut. From all I have learned and realized it is I who must have faith in myself because there is no one who is looking out for me more than I. To have faith in anything else is to forfeit your well being to the mercy of another being who is most likely more selfish than the subservient one who has submitted their faith. A give up emotion caused by uncertainty or naivety of not knowing. The fear and pain of not knowing what to do causes most to freeze in the headlights of a well planned rouse and fall into the trap of a well studied hunter. If I believed in Zeus how would you perceive me? If god made us than who made god? What if we are just a freak coincidence? than I guess all we have is each other.

WorldWar 4Four

February Newsletter

The Future is Watching, We Will be Judged

World War Four is a work of fiction. Written by a Patented Inventor of over 40 creations.

World War Four is based around the patent portfolio of Jerome Velardi... In an imaginary plane of thoughts, memories, and realizations we venture deep into the mind of one man who was clearly placed on earth to offer humankind an option of fates. He has provided us with the ways and means to sustain mankind throughout a long term coexistence. Yet he will also present us with the opposite option in order to temp your inner greed and caveman instincts, trying to override all rational innocent thoughts and temp those who rule into evil and cruel intent for a premeditated future of possibilities. To plant a garden of thoughts into your fertile and rotten minds. Truly a story and a test of man.

The Hero	The Antichrist	The Same
Intentions The hero is you. The ten percent of humanity that acts at the opportunity to help another without question. To lend a hand without the need for return. Born and raised to a moral standard to help the weak and those in need. The people who sacrifice their time and mind to give selflessly to others even though it does not benefit in any way to do so. These people are sometimes driven by a sense of duty to step up and pitch in, if not me than whom? These people exist in everyday occurrences from the small mundane act to the inventor that finds a better way and gives his creation to the world as a gift. You cannot waiver even though the world seems to forget you and leave you behind. You are righteous in spirit and sometimes taken for a fool and all of your money but it is you we are trying to save for the next era of human prosperity. The earth might be the heaven you seek.	Revels in doubt and reassures the dismal intentions deep in the subconscious mind of the modern caveman. We all possess the frequency to tune in and pick up these thoughts. The antichrist is in all of us, it is that evil thought that creeps up unassuming at first only to fester and grow into an open infected soar. The weak of faith will act upon these primitive thoughts and infect any others who are easy prey. The prey is usually the naive innocence that would do what they can to help. The tool of the devil is the misleading story of excuses which is dreamt up and conveyed in lies to catch the eager to help off guard. Once bitten by misfortune some become infected and start to prey upon others. Beware of a long winded sob story or fantastic benefits. That is the sale of lies and the set up to get you off your guard. Once surprise is achieved the trap is sprung and it is too late. He will test you until you break.	A duel of morality burns inside of us all. The choice between what is right and what is left behind as the cost for doing what is right. Even the devil can be used for good in a positive light. To claim his retched cavemen who harbor foul intentions back to the cold dark forever. The devil can be used to do what he does best, wipe the slate clean and claim his rotten souls. If you have no ill intent than you should fear not the devil, if he cannot corrupt you than you will be immune from his wraith. In an odd way the devil could be a good thing, the janitor who can clean up this mess and give us a fresh start. There is no need to fight him if he is not after you. He can leave us an opportunity to prosper in the womb of mother earth. Uninterrupted by mischievous plans and selfish motives we as people can unify for the better of mankind to focus beyond our earthly plane and harvest the stars to build upon, enhance, and sustain our earthly heaven.